Whitney and O'Brien Hanged.

Last Friday morning at 8:04 o'clock
Earl Whitney and Claude O'Brien were hanged for the murder of Mr. A. B.
Chinn.

There is a great deal of comment and undue censure of Gov. Beckham by some of the newspapers because he did not commute their sentences to life imprisonment.

It is beyond our comprehension why any person who respects the law could so speak.

They forget that A. B. Chinn, an honored and respected citizen, was murdered in his own home, in the presence of his aged wife, and, too, after he had told them to take whatever they could find and wanted.

Mrs. O'Brien, especially, and all the men (or boys) has the sympathy of every one, and, no doubt, the relatives and friends of the murdered man.

The hanging of Whitney and O'Brien was a triumph of law over violence.

The execution, however, should have been public, instead of private. While the law in such cases is appeased, the main object should be to impress upon the criminal the importance of the law and deter them from committing crime.

Hay Fever Unknown.

Certain it is, and many years of careful experience are back of the statement, that hay fever, and kindred annoying and troublesome summer affections distressing to so many thousands all over the country, recurring as regularly as July and August, are absolutely unknown in the "Highlands of Ontario." Thousands of people go to Muskoka, Georgian Bay or the Lake of Bays every year for nothing else but to avoid hay fever, and find perfect immunity from the ailment, and many by going there regularly for a period of a few years are said to be permanently cured.

Hay fever booklet can be had free for the asking, by applying to B. McSmith,
Southern Passenger Agent Grand Trunk
Railway, 124 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Michigan.

Those summer shoes are just the thing for this weather.

Washington Book Binders Object to Foreman Miller.

Was Expelled From Union and Dismissed By the Public Printer—President Roosevelt Directed That He Be Re-Employed.

Washington, July 25.—A committee of the Bookbinders' union Friday filed with the civil service commission a copy of their protest against Miller, former superintendent of the government book bindery. This protest is a duplicate of the one filed with Secretary Cortelyou and Public Printer Palmer. Prior to the filing of the protest Commissioner Proctor said to a reporter that it was a useless action on the part of the men to see the civil service commission and protest to it. The men, he said, already proceeded about the matter in the correct way by filing with the public printer their protest, and the matter was now out of the hands of the civil service commission. The commission could not interfere in the case any more than if it concerned a private employer and his factory, but the members of the committee were listened to respectfully when they came.

The local branch of the International Bookbinders' union held a largely attended meeting at Odd Fellows' hall Friday night to consider what action should be taken in the event that V. A. Miller, the assistant foreman of the bindery at the government printing office, returns to duty, as he has expressed the intention of doing, Saturday morning. The meeting discussed the matter for three hours and then adjourned subject to the call of the arbitration committee of the union. There were many speeches and apparently a number of votes but just what they were about no one who attended the meeting was willing to say. It has been said that members of the union would walk out of the printing office if Miller, who has been expelled from membership from the union and dismissed by the public printer, should return to work Saturday, but President Barrett Friday night was non-committal on the subject. He would not give the least intimation of what was done at the meeting.

It is said that the union decided to take no definite action one way or the other for at least three days. It is also said that this is partly due to the prospective visit of the executive committee of the International union, whose advice and assistance have been sought in the matter. President Tatem and the other two members of the committee are said to be now on their way from Chicago.

After Mr. Miller had been expelled from the union and dismissed from the government printing office, he made an appeal to the administration, claiming that he had violated no rules of the civil service and asked to be reinstated. When the matter was laid before President Roosevelt and after due consideration, the president ordered the reinstatement of the discharged assistant foreman.

PRINCE FERDINAND.

It is Believed He Has Fled From Bulgaria Until Excitement Subsides.

Berlin, July 25.—Notwithstanding the semi-official denial that Prince Ferdinand's departure from Bulgaria amounts to flight, the Vossische Zeitung says it believes that the rumors of the prince's flight have some basis and regards it as probable that he has left the country until the existing excitement subsides. It prints Friday a special dispatch from Sofia saying it is openly asserted there that an attempt against Prince Ferdinand's throne is not improbable, Serbia's example having had a profound influence on the prince's enemies.

CONVICTS MUTINY.

One Hundred and Twenty-Five Refuse to Come Out of Their Quarters.

Atlanta, Ga., July 25.—According to advices received here Friday evening, there is a mutiny among the convicts at the Coal City mines in Dade county, Georgia. A telegram was received at the office of the prison commission as follows: "One hundred and twenty-five miners in quarters. Refuse to come out. Please advise." The telegram was signed by J. D. Goode, deputy warden in charge of the Coal City camp. It gave none of the particulars. It was impossible to get further information from the scene Friday night.

Bloomington, Ill., July 25.—J. M. Clark and R. Y. Wallbank, of Cincinnati, are in Bloomington to secure proposals for the consolidation and removal of the plants of the Keystone Carriage Co., of Cincinnati, and the Parsons Vehicle Co., of Columbus, to the western city that makes the best offer.

Wall Street Failures.

Approved the Dead.

Washington, July 25.—The secretary of the interior Friday approved the deed from the Kiowa Indians covering the Mountain View town site in Oklahoma over which there has been considerable controversy.

ATHLETIC SPORTS.

The Naval Service is to Be Made as Attractive as Possible.

Washington, July 25.—With a view of making the naval service as attractive as possible to enlisted men and lessening visits to dives and desertions, the navigation bureau is now working on a scheme for the establishment of recruiting halls and grounds in navy yards and stations. One of the most complete projects so far unfolded within reasonable price came from the Norfolk navy yard. This plan makes provision for a football grounds, baseball diamond, grand stand, cinder track, swimming pools, recruiting hall costing $35,000, with gymnasium and library, dance hall and smoking room. It is probable that where sufficient ground can be secured these Norfolk plans will be adopted as a type for other yards. An appropriation for the purpose will be requested at the next session of congress.

DAYLIGHT ROBBERIES.

One of the Most Daring in the History of the City of Lincoln.

Lincoln, Neb., July 25.—One of the most daring robberies in the history of the city occurred Friday when a man robbed two Lincoln business houses of $45, using a revolver to terrorize the victims. He first entered the rooms over the restaurant of O. E. Houck, where the latter was taking a bath. He commanded Houck to make no outcry and rifled his pockets of $7.50. The thief then went to Rehl-ander's drug store and broke in the rear door while the clerks were watching a circus parade, opened the safe and got $38. A clerk was standing behind the soda water fountain at the time but the robbery was not discovered until ten minutes later, when the robber had disappeared.

TO THE CATHOLIC CHURCH.

All the Municipal Rights in Church Buildings Ceded.

San Juan, P. R., July 25.—All the municipal rights in the church buildings at Guayama, Arroya and Salinas have been ceded by the municipal authorities of those towns to the Catholic church. The question of the ownership of the Catholic church buildings has been disputed ever since the United States took over the island, Spain, under the old regime, claiming title to the edifices, which, however, were maintained out of the municipal funds. The action taken by the municipal authorities of these three towns follows the lines recommended by Gov. Hunt, and it is believed that the same policy will prevail throughout the island, thus settling this disturbing question.

DISPUTE OVER AN ACCOUNT.

Two Men Were Killed and Another One Is Dying.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 25.—Jerry Jarnagin, a collector for the East Tennessee brewery of this city, was shot and killed at LaFollette, Tenn., Friday afternoon by John L. Smith, who was shot by Jarnagin and is now dying. Taylor Smith, a son of John L. Smith, was shot and killed by Deputy Sheriff Peterson, who was trying to arrest him. The trouble was caused by a misunderstanding in regard to a settlement between the East Tennessee Brewing Co. and Smith, who was the agent of the company at LaFollette. Jarnagin was sent out to effect a settlement.

FORMER MAYOR AMES.

He Has Made Application For Pension From the Government.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 25.—Dr. A. A. Ames, former mayor of this city, now under indictment for bribery, has made application for pension on account of disabilities received during the civil war. Application was based on a malady dating back to the time when the doctor was surgeon major of the Seventh Minnesota infantry. In the 38 years that have intervened Dr. Ames has made no attempt to secure aid from the government. He says he is in financial straits and needs the money.

The Canal Treaty.

Panama, July 25.—A strong reaction in favor of the ratification of the canal treaty seems to be occurring throughout Colombia. From all the principal cities and from Cauca, the largest department of the republic, prominent citizens have telegraphed congress requesting that the treaty be ratified. Communication with Bogota is only possible by mail. The land telegraph lines are in bad condition and the cable is broken.

Business Failures During the Week.

FOR TWENTY YEARS MAJOR MARS SUFFERED FROM CATARRH OF THE KIDNEYS.

DANGEROUS KIDNEY DISEASES CURED

Major T. H. Mars, of the First Wisconsin Cavalry regiment, writes from 1425 Dunning street, Chicago, Ill., the following letter:

"For years I suffered with catarrh of the kidneys contracted in the army. Medicine did not help me any until a comrade who had been helped by Peruna advised me to try it. I bought some at once, and soon found blessed relief. I kept taking it four months, and am now well and strong and feel better than I have done for the past twenty years, thanks to Peruna."

—T. H. Mars.

At the appearance of the first symptom of kidney trouble, Peruna should be taken. This remedy strikes at once the very root of the disease. It at once relieves the catarrhal kidneys of the stagnant blood, preventing the escape of serum from the blood. Peruna stimulates the kidneys to excrete from the blood the accumulating poison, and thus prevents the convulsions which are sure to follow if the poisons are allowed to remain. It gives great vigor to the heart's action and digestive system, both of which are apt to fail rapidly in this disease. Peruna cures catarrh of the kidneys simply because it cures catarrh wherever located. If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

POPE LEO LAIN TO REST

Solemn and Impressive Obsequies in St. Peter's.

Cardinal Gibbons Arrived in Rome Sunday—Drove to the Vatican and Paid His Respects to Cardinal Oreglia, the Camerlingo.

Rome, July 27.—The body of Pope Leo was buried in St. Peter's Saturday night. At sundown the most important and most solemn of all the obsequies took place. The front doors of the basilica were closed, and the vast church, except for a row of lights at the shrine of St. Peter, the candles about the bier and those persons who had quietly and with the utmost reverence gathered there, appeared deserted.

The monsignors of the basilica, aided by the noble guard, laid all that was mortal of Leo XIII. in a cypress coffin lined with red satin and bearing on the cover an inlaid cross. The entire sacred college and Prince Colonna rising to their feet as a last tribute and sign of respect.

When the body had been carefully put in the coffin it was entirely concealed with the red velvet covering which before had been on the bier. The major domo put beside the body two silk purses containing coins of silver and a bronze medal, struck during Leo's pontificate.

When all had been arranged the supreme prayer was said and the last benediction given, all present joining in. Half suppressed sobs were heard on all sides.

The second coffin was of lead and very heavy. On the cover, at the head, was a cross, just below which was a skull and crossbones, while below these were the arms of the late pope, with the triple crown, but without the keys, signifying living victory.

These two coffins were then enclosed in a third casket of polished walnut without decorations.

When the last supreme moment came, the heavy coffin, weighing in all 1,322 pounds, were rolled out of the chapel, preceded by mace bearers and choirs, singing as they went, and followed by all the cardinals. Pulleys were attached to the coffin, and soon, to the strains of the "Benedictus Dominus Deus Israel," it was hoisted into the stone sarcophagus above the door, where it will remain until the grateful cardinals created by the late pontiff shall erect a suitable tomb in the basilica of St. John Lateran, which was chosen by the pope himself as his final resting place.

At the sixth meeting of the congregation of cardinals held Sunday 45 cardinals were present. Cardinal Della Volpe, voicing also the opinions of some of his colleagues, criticized the ceremonies in connection with the interment of Leo XIII. Saturday night because the cardinals did not participate in the entire procession and complained generally of the lack of order. Cardinal Oreglia replied that he had already noticed this and that he would punish those who were responsible.

The ceremonial of the conclave established by Gregory XV. is to be followed at the coming meeting. The cardinals have decided during the conclave to eat in common in order to facilitate their work. A local paper quotes the response of Cardinal Svaupa to a question as to whether he believed the conclave would be of lengthy duration, as follows: "On the contrary, I think it will be very short. I believe that two days will suffice to reach an agreement."

Cardinal Gibbons arrived here Sunday, accompanied by Father Garvan, his secretary. He was received at the station by Mr. Kennedy, rector of the American college at Rome, and Father Hertzog, procurator general of the order of Sulpicians. They drove to the Sulpician house, where mass was celebrated. Being tired and the hour being late, Cardinal Gibbons did not attend the meeting of the cardinals Sunday morning. In the afternoon he drove to the Vatican and paid his respects to Cardinal Oreglia, who received him most cordially. He had a conversation with the latter in which the camerlingo informed Cardinal Gibbons of the leading decisions made by the congregation with reference to the conclave. Cardinal Gibbons will receive no one except cardinals until after the conclave.

BATTLESHIP KEARSARGE.

The Famous Vessel Arrived at Bar Harbor, Me., Sunday.

Bar Harbor, Me., July 27.—The United States battleship Kearsarge arrived at Bar Harbor at 5:42 p. m. and dropped anchor in the upper harbor at 6:13. Capt. Hemphill said:

"We left the Needles at 1:25 p. m. on Friday, July 17, and Mount Desert Rock at 12:30 Sunday, covering the distance of 2,900 miles in 9 days 1 1/4 hours, an average speed of 13.16 miles an hour."

Mrs. Blaine's Will.

Augusta, Me., July 25.—The will of Mrs. James G. Blaine has been filed for probate here. No public bequests are made. The will is dated at Washington, April 6, 1901. Estate is estimated at over $500,000 and is divided between children and grandchildren.

Big Packing Plant Burned.

Chicago, July 25.—Fire almost entirely destroyed two buildings of the Omaha Packing Co. Friday, causing a loss estimated at $500,000. It is believed the fire resulted from combustion in the lard refining plant.

RAILWAY WRECK.

Four People Killed in Minnesota and Three in Illinois.

St. Paul, Minn., July 27.—Two trains met in a head-on collision on the Chicago Great Western railroad early Sunday and the result was four men dead and about 25 or 30 passengers injured.

The two trains were the Twin City limited and a fast freight. The limited was running as a first section from Oelwein, Ia., to Minneapolis. The second section consisted of an excursion train running from Des Moines to Minneapolis and was three hours behind time.

The fast freight, south bound, received an order at Dodge Center reading that the second section of the passenger train was three hours late and the crew evidently misread the order and attempted to make Vlasaty siding between Dodge Center and Hastings, Minn., thinking that it was the limited that was late.

That the two trains came together with terrific force was evidenced by the fact that both engines were badly damaged, but they remained standing upright on the tracks. The baggage and buffet cars were completely wrecked. The baggage car struck a small building and one end went through the side of the structure.

East St. Louis, Ill., July 27.—An accommodation train on the Vandavia road en route to St. Louis ran into a well filled electric car on the East St. Louis and Suburban street railway near Lansdowne, three miles north of here, Sunday, killing three persons and injuring a score.

The crash of the collision was terrific and was heard a long distance. The accommodation train was drawn by an engine which was backing, and was running at a good rate of speed when suddenly the tender of the engine crashed into the trolley car at the street crossing. The car was hurled from its track a mass of wreckage. The impact caused the coaches to break loose from the engine and they did not leave the track, but the engine left the rails, ran about 200 feet over the ties, and turned over on its side.

Engineer Roy and Fireman Higgins stuck to the engine and were buried in its wreckage. After being removed Engineer Roy died at the hospital. Fireman Higgins is so badly injured that he can not live. The two were pinioned under a jet of scalding steam and their screams were agonizing. Nothing could be done until jackscrews were secured and the engine raised. Roy and Higgins begged to be killed outright that they might not suffer the torture they were undergoing. When they were finally taken out both were literally parboiled.

Beattie and Lenharth, the two other men who were killed, were standing on the platform of the street car when the crash came. They were hurled at most 30 feet and were picked up dead.

HURLED TO THEIR DEATHS.

Father, Mother and Infant Killed by a Train on the Crossing.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 27.—Joshua Butler, wife and infant child, were struck by the eastbound Black Diamond express on the Lehigh Valley railroad late Sunday afternoon, while driving across the track at Port Bowley, six miles from here, and all three are dead. The horse was also killed and the carriage demolished. The occupants were hurled fully 100 feet, the woman's death being instantaneous; the babe was tossed over the locomotive and was found lying in the tender on top of the coal. It was still alive but died a few moments later.

Mr. Butler was found in a field near the track. He was not killed outright, but died within an hour after the accident. Mr. Butler was a truck farmer, 32 years of age. His wife was 23, and the babe was one year old.

SHOT AT FROM AMBUSH.

An Attempt to Assassinate Riley Coldiron at Jackson, Ky.

Jackson, Ky., July 27.—There was much excitement here Sunday over an attempt to assassinate Riley Coldiron Saturday night. Coldiron was with James Gear when two shots from ambush were heard, one of the bullets passing through Coldiron's clothing. Coldiron testified before the grand jury the past week that he saw Britton and Spicer with Jett at the time Jett is charged with killing Town Marshal Thomas Cockrill and when Britton and Spicer were indicted certain county officials attempted to have Coldiron indicted for perjury.

Shreveport, La., July 27.—News reached here Sunday that the Negroess Jennie Steer, who administered poison in a glass of lemonade to Lizzie Dolan, the 16-year-old daughter of John Dolan, from the effects of which she died, was lynched by an infuriated mob at sundown Saturday night.

ANOTHER RACE RIOT.

Two Killed and Twenty-Two Wounded at Danville, Ill.

One Negro Was Lynched and His Body Burned—A Bitter Feeling Between the Two Races Has Existed For a Long Time.

Danville, Ill., July 27.—James Wilson, colored, was arrested charged with brutally assaulting Mrs. Thomas Burgess, wife of a farmer, at Alvon, just north of here, Saturday. He confessed when placed in jail. A mob of 600 men started for the county jail clamoring for his life.

On the way a Negro named John D. Metcalfe, said to be a fugitive from Evansville, Ind., became involved in an altercation with some of the mob. They started for him and he pulled a gun and fired. Henry Gatterman, a young butcher, fell mortally wounded, expiring a few seconds later. The Negro was arrested by the officers, but the mob soon took him away from the officers and hanged him to a telegraph pole. His body was later cut down and taken to the square in front of the jail and burned.

The mob then made an attack on the jail in a vain effort to get Mrs. Burgess' assailant. A battering ram was improvised and an assault made on the jail and the sheriff and the guards resisted and finally fired into the crowd. Twenty-two persons were wounded and the riot commenced.

The police station was wrecked and the county jail had almost all its windows shattered.

The city is now in the hands of the state troops and a feeling of uneasiness and dread prevails everywhere. After daylight appeared Sunday morning there were restless crowds on the streets. Hundreds of farmers poured into the city and each surrounding town contributed to swell the crowd. There were many miners seen on the streets.

Great unrest and a threatening attitude was reported from Westville, five miles away. Early in the morning Wilson, the Negro assailant of Mrs. Burgess, was secretly taken from the county jail but was returned shortly after 5 o'clock Sunday morning to the jail.

Four companies of militia arrived at 8:30 Sunday morning from Springfield. Companies A, I, B and H, of the Seventh Illinois infantry, were sent in reply to urgent requests sent at midnight to state officials. The troops marched to the market house opposite the jail and camped. Streets were cleared and the threatening attitude of the crowds disappeared. There were sullen threats heard, but no attempt at an outbreak was manifest during the day. Sunday night 100 sentinels were patrolling the streets in the immediate vicinity of the jail. Each soldier carries 40 rounds of ammunition.

Sheriff Whitlock said Sunday in giving his version of the shooting into the mob: "After I saw from the jail that the mob was determined to attack, I went to the veranda and attempted to talk to the maddened men. As I stepped into view of the crowd two bullets were fired, one striking the wall back of me. I fired two shots into the air. Some one shouted that I was only bluffing and was shooting blank cartridges. I warned the mob I would resist an attack on the jail with powder and lead. There was another shot from the mob and it surged forward. I then fired a shot from my shotgun into their legs. This drove them back but they returned a moment later to the attack of the front door. I was alarmed for the safety of my wife and children. My wife took a gun and said she would stand by me. I got her and the children out of the way and then, seeing the leaders coming with the rail to batter down the walls, I shot down the rail to make them drop it. This accounts for so many being shot in the hands and arms. I fired eight or ten shots in all."

Sheriff Whitlock had four deputies and three constables with him in the jail guarding the prisoners. He says none fired into the mob but himself. Leading citizens say the outbreak has been expected by them for a long time, as bitter feeling has existed for several years between the Negroes and a certain class of white persons. A number of miners' outbreaks have occurred during the past year.

The feeling against the soldiers is noticeable. The commissary department Sunday had much trouble getting restaurants to serve meals. Many refused to feed the soldiers. There was one clash between the guard and a miner named Ed Liggett, who began abusing the guard. The soldier leveled his bayonet and Liggett was arrested and fined $100.

CONTRACT AWARDED.

Ground for Kentucky Building at World's Fair Will be Broken This Week.

The contract for the erection of the Kentucky State building at the World's Fair in St. Louis next year has just been awarded to Caldwell & Drake, the firm which is erecting both the Agricultural and Horticultural buildings, and ground will be broken this week.

The announcement of this fact will disclose to many people who have not been keeping pace with the work of the Association that it has been pushing matters with energy and is beginning to reap tangible results. The Association has raised already about $32,000 and, with nine months in which to labor before the opening of the Fair, is already assured of the ultimate success of its plans. Not only has the Association completed arrangements for the erection of a building which will be a credit to the State, but it is industriously pushing the work of collecting exhibits, which will reflect the industrial and commercial resources of the State in a most striking way.

The building will be a most attractive one and it will be located on a site which is the best yet assigned to any State, being so situated as to constitute a part of what is called the "Main Picture" of the Fair. It is very near to the Government building and everybody who goes to an exposition goes to the Government building many times. It is situated at the intersection of two main avenues, one leading from the Government building to the Grand Basin and the other from the Government building to the cascades and restaurants. Nearby is to be the extensive German display and on the other side the out-door mining exhibit, which is to be one of the most attractive features of the Exposition.

The building will, in fact, be so situated as to attract great attention and be of the utmost value to the State as an advertisement. It will face an open space between the Government building and the Mines building, in which is to be located the government gun exhibit—one of the striking features of the big show. At this point it will readily attract visitors not only from Kentucky, but from all other states, and it is the purpose of the Exhibit Association to make the building attractive, not only as a resting place for visitors from Kentucky, but as something worth seeing for anyone who goes to the exposition.

The Association has been beforehand in the matter of securing this site and also in securing space for its exhibits in the main exhibit palaces. The fact has been amply demonstrated that if this work had not been undertaken now as it has been by the Association, it would have been impossible to secure a desirable site for the building and the necessary space for the exhibits, as applications for sites and space have been overwhelming. With the time still ahead of it in which to prosecute both its campaign for funds and the work of collecting exhibit materials, the association is assured of success. It is receiving assurances of support from many quarters and believes it will have at the exposition a Kentucky display that will be not only a display of the State's resources, but a demonstration of the public spirit and liberality of the citizens of the State, which will be of itself an exhibit of the greatest value.

If you want best goods at cheap prices, give me a call.

Intimidation Charged.

A special sent out from Jackson on the 25, says: "The special grand jury called by Circuit Judge Redwine for the purpose of investigating the arson and bribery cases and going thoroughly into the assassinations of Town Marshal James Cockrell and Dr. Cox adjourned today, having made a poor showing towards accomplishing anything."

"Joe Crawford and Ed Tharp were indicted for burning Ewen's hotel and Gardner Plummer was indicted for offering Ewen $5,000 not to implicate Curtis Jett in the Marcus assassination trial."

"When the jury went into the assassination case of Jim Cockrell, Commonwealth's Attorney Byrd said he had to leave town and turned the management of the case over to the Breathitt County Attorney, and before Byrd was on the train Sheriff Ed Callahan began intimidating the witnesses by swearing out a warrant for Riley Coldiron, charging him with false swearing. Charles Green, another witness to the assassination of Jim Cockrell, was taken to Jackson by the officers, scared almost to death, and when he went into the jury room he denied knowing any of the men."

"McKinley Cockrell, the 19-year-old brother of the murdered man, did everything in his power to get the case before the grand jury, and Foreman Bowman says that the jury was about to bring an indictment against Bill Britton when ex-Senator Alex. Hargis made his appearance at the jury room door and said in a voice loud enough for all to hear that Riley Coldiron should be indicted for perjury. This seemed to take all the nerve out of the half-hearted grand jury."

"Coldiron, who is a game man, was placed in jail near Britton, on a trumped up charge of false swearing, and he told Britton that he saw and recognized him when the shots were fired that killed Cockrell to his face and that he would not lie about it."

"Foreman Bowman says the assassins of Cockrell and Cox will never be convicted as the courts are now organized in Breathitt county, and all in all the special term of court has proven the farce expected by every one familiar with the rule of the Redwine-Hargis-Callahan dynasty."

TWO SHOTS ARE FIRED AT RILEY COLDIRON.

At Jackson, there was much excitement Sunday over an attempt to assassinate Riley Coldiron. Coldiron was with James Gear when two shots from ambush were heard, one of the bullets passing through Coldiron's clothing. Coldiron testified before the grand jury the past week that he saw Britton and Spicer with Curtis Jett at the time Jett is charged with killing Town Marshal Thomas Cockrell, and when Britton and Spicer were not indicted certain county officials attempted to have Coldiron indicted for perjury.

The friends of Coldiron wanted him to leave the county after he had testified, but he insisted Saturday night on visiting his sister, who lives near one of the men against who he testified. It is stated that B. J. Ewen and Riley Coldiron are the only ones who have dared to testify as to what they knew, and that Ewen gets out of Breathitt county as soon as he testified. He states that he is not apt to be pursued into other counties, where the assassin would not only be arrested, but also have their cases before both grand and trial juries that could not be intimidated, while they seem to feel that they are immune in Breathitt from arrest, indictment or conviction. Riley Coldiron left Sunday for the trial of Jett and White at Cynthiana, and his friends will try to prevent his returning to Breathitt for the present.

My parched coffees are fine, try one parcel and be convinced.

DOUBLE CURIO.—Claude O'Brien, the young murderer who was hanged at Lexington Friday, bought a gold ring from Carl Jett, which he sent to his brother in Memphis as a remembrance. A ring from a mountain desperado on trial for assassination, presented by a young desperado about to be hanged for the murder of a defenseless old man, is a double curio of ghastly interest.

PEACOCK ATTACKED A CHILD.—A vicious peacock attacked the 2-year-old son of Peter Lukenheimer, of Covington, at the Lookout house, on the Lexington pike. The timely arrival of assistance saved the child from having both eyes picked out. The child was badly injured.

BOTH FATALLY CUT.—At Owensboro, Chris Heady and John McMurtry, farmers, got into a fight with Casher Kaelin Sunday afternoon, and Kaelin, it is said, cut both of them fatally. Heady cannot live through the night and McMurtry, it is believed, cannot possibly recover.

Having a Great Time.

The Battle Creek, Mich., Daily Journal, of July 24, has this to say of the Kentucky Press Association: "At 3:55 o'clock this afternoon a palace train over the G. T. W. Ry., brought to our city the editors, their wives and families, from the 'Blue Grass' State and a merrier throng of guests we dare say never entered our city. They are a good looking and intellectual company of gentlemen and ladies and were delighted to get here. As they alighted from their special and luxurious Pullman cars at the depot, a large company of press representatives and officers and members of the Business Men's Association were there to give them a cordial greeting. This was not all, for the K. O. T. M. M. military band rendered the stirring piece, 'Dixie' which was hailed with delight and roundly applauded by our guests, and for an encore played 'My Old Kentucky Home.' "As soon as warm welcomes had been cordially extended the party were ushered to an electric train awaiting them at the crossing and a ride around our beautiful city was commenced."

New Banks in Kentucky.

Never before in the history of Kentucky have so many banking institutions been organized in the same length of time as there have been during the past few weeks, and this is in a great measure indicative of the era of prosperity upon which all sections of the State are about to enter.

In the remote towns of the mountainous section of the State quite a number of banks have recently been organized. During the month of May thirty new banks were organized in this State, and during the past month quite a number have taken definite shape. Still more are being planned, and will be established during the next few months.

HAVE you seen those ladies' Oxfords that have just arrived at Thomson's?

Y. M. C. A. SUNDAY.—Sunday was observed in this city by the Young men's Christian Association. Prominent workers were present from different parts of the State. Mr. P. C. Dix spoke at the Methodist church Sunday morning; Dr. J. A. Stucky at the Christian, Mr. Thomas Johnson at First Presbyterian, and Mr. Henry E. Rosevear at the Second Presbyterian. A meeting for men only was held at 3 o'clock in Second Presbyterian church, where Mr. Thomas Johnson and Dr. J. A. Stucky, both of Lexington, spoke. Union services were held in the Methodist church. Much interest seemed to be taken in all of the exercises, which were enjoyed by those present.

CAMP MEETING.—Parks Hill Camp Meeting will open August 7th with Dr. W. T. Bolling presiding. Elder Z. T. Sweeney will preach and lecture on August 8th and 9th. Some of the most noted preachers will be heard there this season. Every afternoon the Schiller Quartet and Miss Jackson will give an entertainment. Several convenient cottages remain untaken. Write to I. B. Ross, secretary, at Carlisle, and he will answer all inquiries.

Military Guard Refused Witnesses.

B. J. Ewen departed from Cynthiana Sunday night when informed by Col. Williams that he could offer him no military protection during the trials of Jett and White, scheduled to begin yesterday. Col. Williams' action was due to a clash with Circuit Judge Osborne. Judge Osborne gave orders that no militia should be permitted about the jail or courthouse or within sight of the jury. He offered to allow six men to wear citizens' clothes and be sworn in as Deputy Sheriffs to protect Jett and White, but would permit no escort for witnesses. Col. Williams refused to let his men serve as soldiers, and declared to Judge Osborne he could not under the orders guarantee the safety of prisoners or witnesses. Col. Williams informed Ewen, and Ewen at once left Cynthiana. Other witnesses may also leave, considering their lives unsafe without escort. If they do leave the case of the Commonwealth will be materially weakened if forced into a trial. Judge Osborne explains his order by saying there is no danger of an attack upon the jail or witnesses and he does not propose to have persons going to the courthouse stopped by the militia.

LATER.—Capt. B. J. Ewen returned to Cynthiana over the L. & N. road at 2:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied by Capt. J. J. Greenleaf and a squad of three men who came for him from Cynthiana at 11:40 this morning.

CHURCH CHIMES.

—Methodist Conference meets at Cynthiana Sept. 2nd.
—The Rev. W. J. Mahoney, of Carlisle, Ky., has been called to the Third Baptist church, Knoxville, Tenn.
—Kentucky Wesleyan College has received a bequest of $600 from the estate of Mrs. DeBard, of Mt. Sterling.
—The thirty-eighth annual convention of the Kentucky Sunday School Association will meet at Lexington August 18, 19, 20. A very interesting programme has been arranged. Prof. E. O. Excell will lead the music.
—Wesleyan University has a unique Methodist relic, a jackwood loving cup, once the property of Bishop Asbury's mother, and which was often used by John Wesley as a communion cup when he stopped with Mrs. Asbury.
—The old Main-street Christian church, one of the oldest landmarks in Lexington, is to be torn down the coming week, and in its stead will be erected a large business building. This church was the scene of many interesting sermons by Alexander Campbell, founder of the Christian church. Since the erection of the Walnut street church, the old building has been used as a theatre, winter circus, Salvation Army headquarters, and the meeting place of numerous conventions.
—At Harrodsburg the union tent revival meeting closed Sunday night. After a week's rest, the Rev. M. B. Williams will hold a similar meeting at Mt. Sterling. The result at Harrodsburg has been most gratifying, and over 200 people have confessed. Among the converts are many gray-haired men and women. Each church will receive many additions to membership. The people have responded liberally in offerings. Nearly $1,000 was contributed Sunday. The secretary figures that the total attendance has been over 35,000. The daily average was over 1,000. The resident ministers are rejoiced, and all church members are happy over the result.

—The Louisville Post says: "The final session of the convention of the colored Sunday-schools of the State was concluded Wednesday. J. E. Baker, of Paris, was appointed editor of the department in the Christian Companion, and the raising of a collection for the Louisville Bible Society. The afternoon's session was especially interesting and inspiring. The first feature of this session was the presentation of a gavel, which was made from wood taken from the old elm tree, Cane Ridge, under which the first colored Christian church was founded. The gavel bears the following inscription: "Cut from the old elm tree, Mother Church, November 14, 1902. Presented to the thirty-first annual convention by Little Rock Christian church, July 22, 1903, through its pastor, R. E. Hathaway." This church was established by Samuel Buckner, of Paris, a venerable man of more than eighty-five years. Although he has worked almost incessantly, he still enjoys reasonable health and was able to be present at this convention. His appeal to the assembly for Christian steadfastness and integrity was searching and pathetic. Hardly an unmoistened eye could be seen while the trembling voice of this servant of God was exhorting and reciting many of his strange encounters.

—The Maysville Bulletin says: "The Christian church at Maysville is only sixteen months old, and has grown from nothing to a membership of fifty-seven in that period. The Bible school is doing some excellent work by the consecrated teachers. A new church house there is getting to be an absolute necessity, the old store in which the services are held being too small for effective work—especially for the Bible school. Rev. R. E. Moss won golden opinions during the very successful meeting that closed Wednesday, by his earnest and masterly preaching, and wise manner of conducting the services. Of the twenty-five added to the membership, fifteen are young men."

A TRUE HELPMATE.

She was not fair, and yet she stood
A shining mark of womanhood.
She was not talented, forsooth,
She'd been a toiler from her youth.
Upon the wondrous stage of life
She played the part of farmer's wife,
And, be it said, with loving art
She always acted well her part.
Her education was not such
As comes from keeping close in touch
With art and music, latest books;
But ah! the fond maternal looks
She lavished on her girls and boys
Than college gifts were sweeter joys;
And, be it said of her, she e'er
Bore brave her martyrdom of care.

Her life was lowly as the sod,
And yet she hand in hand with God
Walked through this vale of tears and Woe.
And now that winter sleet and snow
Lies drifted o'er her grave, I'd write
This epitaph for marble white:
"Through sun and storm adown Life's road
She always shouldered half the load."

"What captain?" yelled Kennedy, all ablaze at the instant. "Spake up, ye shiverin' loon!"

"Blake! He got way ahead of us."

"Then it's to him you should be runnin', not home, ye cur! Turn about now! Turn about or I'll—"
And in a fury Pat had seized the other's rein, and, spurring savagely at Kilmaine—both horses instantly waking, as though responsive to the wrath and fervor of their little master—he fairly whirled the big trooper around and, despite fearsome protests, bore him onward toward the ridge, swift questioning as they rode. How came they to send a raw rookie on such a quest? Why, the rookie gasped in explanation that he was on stable guard, and the captain took the first six men in sight. How happened it that the captain got so far ahead of him? There was no keepin' up with the captain. He was on his big, raw-boned race horse, 'chasin' three Indians that was frin', and had hit Meisner, but there was still three of the troop to follow him, and the captain ordered "come ahead," until all of a sudden, as they filed round a little knoll the three Indians they'd been chasin' turned about and let 'em have it, and down went another horse, and Corporal Feeney was killed sure, and he, poor young rookie, saw Indians in every direction, "comin' straight at 'em," and what else could he do but gallop for home—and help? All this, told with much gasping on his part, and heard with much blasphemy by Kennedy, brought the strangely assorted pair at a swift gallop over the springy turf back along the line of that panicky, yet most natural retreat. Twice would the big fellow have broken away and again spurred for home, but the little gamecock held him savagely to his work, and so, together, at last they neared the curtaining ridge. "Now, damn you!" howled Kennedy, "Whip out your carbine and play you're a man till we see what's in front! an' if ye play false, the first shot from this barker," with a slap at the butt of his Springfield, "goes through your heart."

"AND KNEELING, DROVE SHOT AFTER SHOT AT THE SCURRYING PAIR."

And this was what they saw as, together, they rounded the hillock and came in view of the low ground beyond.

Half-way down the long, gradual slope, in a shallow little dip, possibly an old buffalo wallow, two or three horses were sprawled and a tiny tongue of flame and blue smoke, spitting over the broad, brown backs, told that some one, at least, was on the alert and defensive. Out on the prairie, 300 yards beyond, a spotted Indian pony, heels up, was rolling on the turf, evidently sorely wounded. Behind this rolling parapet crouched a feathered warrior, and farther still away, sweeping and circling on their mettlesome steeds, three more savage braves were darting at speed. Already they had sighted the coming reinforcements, and while two seemed frantically signalling toward the northwest, the third whirled his horse and sped madly away in that direction.

"Millions, be damned!" yelled Kennedy. "There's only three. Come on, ye scut!" And down they went, full tilt, at the Sioux, yet heading to cover and reach the beleaguered party in the hollow. Some one of the besieged waved a hat on high. Two more carbines barked their defiance at the feathered foe, and then came a pretty exhibit of savage daring and devotion. Disdainful of the coming troopers and of the swift fire blazing at them from the pit, the two mounted warriors lashed their ponies to mad gallop and tore down straight for their imperiled brother, crouching behind the stricken "pinto." Never swerving, never halting, hardly checking speed, but bending low over and behind their chargers' necks, the two young braves swept onward, and with wild whoop of triumph, challenge and hatred, gathered up and slung behind the rider of the heavier pony the agile and bedizened form on the turf; then circled away, defiant, taunting, gleeful, yes and even more:—With raging eyes Kennedy sprang from saddle and, kneeling, drove shot after shot at the scurrying pair. Two of the troopers at the hollow followed suit. Even the big, blubbery lad so lately crazed with fear, unslinging his weapon and fired three times into empty space, and a shout of wrath and renewed challenge to "come back and fight it out!" rang out after the Sioux, for to the amazement of the lately besieged, to the impatient fury of the Irishman, in unmistakable, yet mostly unquotable, English, the crippled warrior was yelling mingled threat and imprecation.

"Who was it Kennedy?—and where did you ever see him before?" a moment later, demanded Capt. Blake, almost before he could grasp the Irishman's hands, and shower his thanks, and even while stanching the flow of blood from a furrow along his sun-burnt cheek. "What's that he said about eating your heart?"

And Kennedy, his head cleared now through the rapture of battle, minded him of his promise to Field, and lied like a hero. "Sure, how should I know, sorr? They're all of the same spit."

"But he called you by name. I heard him plainly. So did Meisner, here," protested Blake. "Hello, what have you there, corporal?" he added, as young Feeney, the "surely killed," came running back, bearing in his hand a gaily ornamented pouch of buckskin, with long fringes and heavy crusting of brilliant beads.

"Picked it up by that pony yonder, sir," answered the corporal, with a salute. "Beg pardon, sir, but will the captain take my horse? His is hit too bad to carry him."

Two, indeed of Blake's horses were crippled, and it was high time to be going. Mechanically he took the pouch and tied it to his waist belt. "Thank God no man is hurt!" he said. "But—now back to Frayne! Watch those ridges and be ready if a feather shows, and spread out a little—don't ride in a bunch."

But there was bigger game afield to the west, demanding all the attention of the gathered Sioux. There were none to spare to send so far, and though three warriors—one of them raging and clamoring for further attempt despite his wounds—hovered about the retiring party, Blake and his fellows within another hour were in sight of the sheltering walls of Frayne; and, after a last, long-range swapping of shots, with Blake and Meisner footing it most of the way, led their crippled mounts in safety toward that Rubicon of the west—the swift flowing Platte. They were still three miles out when Blake found leisure to examine the contents of that beaded pouch, and the first thing drawn from its depths was about the last a Christian would think to find in the wallet of a Sioux—a dainty little billet, scented with wood violet—an envelope of delicate texture, containing a missive on paper to match, and the envelope was addressed in a strange, angular, characteristic hand that Blake recognized at once, to a man of whom, by that name at least, he had never heard before.

"MR. RALPH MOREAU,
"En Ville."

CHAPTER IX.

Sorely puzzled as Blake had been by the discovery, he had been able on the long homeward march—walking until in sight of Frayne and safety, then galloping ahead on the corporal's horse—to think it out, as he said, in several ways. Miss Flower had frequently ridden up the valley and visited the Indian village across the Platte. Miss Flower might easily have dropped that note, and some squaw, picking it up, had surrendered it to the first red man who demanded it, such being the domestic discipline of the savage. The Indian kept it, as he would any other treasure trove for which he had no use, in hopes of reward for its return, said Blake. It was queer, of course, that the Indian in whose pouch it was found should have been so fluent a speaker of English, yet many a Sioux knew enough of our tongue to swear volubly and talk ten words of vengeance to come. There were several ways, as Blake reasoned, by which that letter might have got into the hands of the enemy. But at any rate, with everything said, it was a woman's letter. He had no right to read it. He would first confide in his wife, and, if she said so, in Mrs. Ray. Then what they decided should decide him.

But now came a new problem. Despite the long morning of peril and chase and excitement, there was still much more ahead. His men were in saddle; his troop was afield; the foe was in force on the road to the north; the battle, mayhap, was on at the very moment, and Frayne and home was no place for him when duty called at the distant front. Only, there was Nan, silent, tremulous, to be sure, and with such a world of piteous dread and pleading in her beautiful eyes. It was hard to have to tell her he must go again and at once, hard to have to bid her help him in his hurried preparations, when she longed to throw herself in his arms and be comforted. He tried to smile as he entered the gate, and thereby cracked the brittle, sun-dried court plaster with which a sergeant had patched his cheek at the stables. The would-be gladsome grin started the blood again, and it trickled down and splashed on his breast where poor Nan longed to pillow her bonny head, and the sight of it, despite her years of frontier training, made her sick and faint. He caught her in his left arm, laughing gayly, and drew her to the other side. "Got the mate to that scoop of Billy's," he cried, holding forth his other hand to Mrs. Ray. "Tisn't so deep, perhaps, but 'twill serve, 'twill do, and I'll crow over him to-night. Come in with us, Mrs. Ray. I—I've something to show you."

"One minute," said that wise young matron. "Let me tell the children where to find me. Sandy and Billy are on post at the telescope. They wouldn't leave it even for luncheon." With that she vanished, and husband and wife were alone.

"You must go, Gerald," she sobbed. "I know it, but— isn't there some way?—Won't Capt. Dade send more men with you?"

"If he did, Nan, they'd only hamper me with horses that drag behind. Be brave, little woman. Webb has swept the way clear by this time. Come, I need your help."

And the door closed on the soldier and his young wife. They never saw that Nanette Flower, in saddle, was riding swiftly up the row, and, for the first time since her coming to Frayne, without an escort. Dade reappeared upon his front gallery in time to greet her, but Esther, after one quick glance, had darted again within. Dade saw unerringly that Miss Flower was in no placid frame of mind. Her cheeks were pale; her mouth had that livid look that robbed her face of all beauty; but her eyes were full and flashing with excitement.

"What news, captain?" she hailed, and the joyous, silvery ring had gone from her voice. "They tell me Capt. Blake is back—two horses crippled, two men hit, including himself."

"His own share is a scratch he wouldn't think of mentioning outside the family," Miss Flower, answered Dade, with grim civility. He had his reasons for disapproving of the young woman; yet they were not such as warranted him in showing her the least discourtesy. He walked to his gate and met her at the curb beyond and stood stroking the arching neck of her spirited horse—"Harney" again.

"Did they—were there any Indians—killed?" she asked, with anxiety scarcely veiled.

"Oh, they downed one of them," answered the captain, eying her closely the while and speaking with much precision, "a fellow who cursed them freely in fluent English." Yes, she was surely turning paler. "A bold, bad customer, from all accounts. Blake thought he must be of Lane Wolf's fellows, because he seemed to know Kennedy so well and to hate him. Kennedy has only just come down from Fort Beecher, where Wolf's people have been at mischief."

"But what became of him? What did they do with him?" interrupted the girl, her lips quivering in spite of herself.

"Oh—left him, I suppose," answered the veteran, with deliberate design. "What else could they do? There was no time for ceremony. His fellow savages, you know, can attend to that."

For a moment she sat there rigid, her black eyes staring straight into the imperturbable face of the old soldier. No one had ever accused Dade of cruelty or unkindness to man or woman, especially to woman; yet here he stood before this suffering girl and with obvious intent, pictured to her mind's eye a warrior stricken and left unburied or uncreased for on the field. Whatever his reasons, he stabbed and meant to stab, and for just one moment she seemed almost to droop and reel in saddle; then, with splendid rally, straightened up again, her eyes flashing, her lip curling in scorn, and with one brief, emphatic phrase ended the interview and, whirling Harney about, smote him sharply with her whip, and darted away.

"True!" she said. "Civilized warfare!"

"If that girl isn't more than half savage," said Dade, to himself, as Harney tore away out of the garrison on the road to the ford, "I am more than half Sioux. Oh, for news of Ray!"

Ray indeed! It was now nearly four o'clock. Telegrams had been coming and going over the Laramie wire. "The Chief," as they called their general, with only one of his staff in attendance, had reached Cheyenne on time, and, quitting the train, declining dinner at the hotel and having but a word or two with the "Platform Club"—the little bevy of officers from Fort Russell whose custom it was to see the westbound train through almost every day—had started straightway for Laramie behind the swiftest team owned by the quartermaster's department, while another, in relay, awaited him at the Chugwater, nearly 50 miles out. Driving steadily through the starlit night, he should reach the old frontier fort by dawn at the latest, and what news would Dade have to send him there? Not a word had he uttered to either the officers who respectfully greeted, or reporters who eagerly importuned, him as to the situation at Frayne; but men who had served with him in Arizona and on the Yellowstone many a year before, knew well that grave tidings had reached him. Dade had in fact supplemented Webb's parting dispatch with another, saying that Blake's little party, returning, had just been sighted through the telescope nine miles out, with two men afoot. But not until the general reached Lodge Pole creek did the message meet him, saying that Webb's advance guard could hear the distant attack on Ray. Not until he reached the Chugwater in the early night could he hope to hear the result.

It was nightfall when the awful suspense of the garrison at Frayne was even measurably lifted. Blake, with three troopers at his back, had then been gone an hour, and was lost in the gloaming before Dr. Tracy's orderly, with a face that plainly told the nervous tension of his two hours' ride, left his reeking, heaving horse at the stables and climbed the steep path to the flag-staff, the shortest way to the quarters of the commanding officer. Despite the gathering darkness, he had been seen by a dozen eager watchers and was deluged with questions by trembling, tearful women and by grave, anxious men.

"There's been a fight; that's all I know," he said. "I was with the pack mules and the ambulances and didn't get to see it. All I saw was dead ponies way out beyond Ten Mile ridge. Where's the major?—I mean the captain?" No! the orderly didn't know who was killed or wounded, or that anybody was killed and wounded. All he knew was that Dr. Tracy came galloping back and ordered the ambulances to scout for the front and him to spur every bit of the way back to Frayne with the note for Capt. Dade.

All this was told as he eagerly pushed his way along the board walk; soldiers' wives hanging on his words and almost on him; officers' wives and daughters calling from the galleries or running to the gates, and Dade heard the hubbub almost as quickly as did Esther, who hurried to the door. By the light of the hall lamp the commander read the penciled superscription of the gummed envelope and the word "immediate" at the corner. The same light fell on a dozen anxious, pleading faces beyond the steps. His hand shook in spite of himself, and he knew he could not open and read it in their presence. "One moment," he said, his heart going out to them in sympathy as well as dread. "You shall hear in one moment," and turned aside into the little army parlor.

But he could not turn from his wife and child. They followed and stood studying his pale face as he read the fateful words that told so little, yet so much:—

"Reached Ray just in time. Sharp affair. Dr. Walter will have to come at once as Tracy goes on with us to rescue stage people at Dry Fork. Better send infantry escort and all hospital attendants that can be possibly spared; also chaplain, Sergeants Burroughs and Wing, Corporal Foot and Troopers Denny, Flood, Kerrigan and Preusser killed. Many wounded—Lieut. Field seriously." "WEBB."

A MATERNAL COLLIE.

Remarkable Intelligence Displayed by a Scottish Shepherd's Clever Dog.

Giles, the shepherd of Folly farm, was brushing the white ruff of his $1,000 collie. "The collie," he told the Philadelphia Record, "is the most interesting of dogs. Permit me to tell you a true collie story. There was a Scottish shepherd, whose dog gave birth to a litter of pups. All but one of them died and the mother devoted herself so thoroughly to this sole remaining child that her master's work was quite neglected—the sheep were not looked after at all. The man, enraged at this state of affairs, took the pup and drowned it in a bucket before its mother's eyes. Then he went off to the town for the day. In the evening, on his return, the drowned pup was missing. The shepherd said to his collie, pointing to the bucket: 'What did you do with your pup, Bess?' The collie gave a low, mournful howl and set off, looking backward often to signify to her master that he should follow. She led him to a knoll and paused, moaning, beside a spot where the earth had a fresh look. The shepherd turned up the soil, and there beneath it the drowned puppy lay. Its mother had taken it out of the bucket and given it a decent burial."

Only One Way.

"In these days," he sighed, "it is difficult to convince a girl of your sincere admiration."

"How so?" she asked.

"Why, if you tell her she is pretty, she thinks you mean to infer that she is stupid; if you tell her she is clever she assumes that you mean she is disagreeable, and if you tell her she is amiable she concludes that you do not think her pretty."

"Still," she said thoughtfully, "there is a way to convince her on all points. One is reasonably certain in what a man thinks when he—"

"Yes, yes, of course," he interrupted, as he took her hand and put to her the momentous question. "But," he added after a very busy interval, "if that's the only way of giving a girl a compliment that hasn't a sting to it, a fellow has got to be somewhat ungracious and illiberal to keep out of trouble."—Chicago Post.

COTTON STILL KING

Value of Exports of This Product Is Likely to Exceed All Records.

During Eleven Months, Ending with May, They Amounted to Over Five Millions More Than Any Preceding Eleven Months.

Cotton is still king in the export records of the United States, and its record in the present year is likely to surpass that of any preceding year. The value of raw cotton exported in the 11 months ending with May is, according to the preliminary figures of the treasury bureau of statistics, $308,747,095, which is $5,000,000 in excess of the highest 11 months' record ever heretofore made. The highest 11 months' figures recorded by this preliminary statement in earlier years were for the 11 months ending with May, 1901, when the total stood at $303,497,517. Should the June figures equal those of June in the immediately preceding years the total for the fiscal year would be $317,000,000, or $4,000,000 in excess of the banner year 1901. The quantity exported this year is not as great as that of the years 1898 and 1899, but owing to the higher prices received the value is very much greater than that of those years, and, as already indicated, larger than that of the corresponding months of any preceding year.

Determined by dividing the number of pounds into the value stated by the bureau of statistics records, for the 11 months ending with May, 1903, 8.87 cents, and for the 11 months ending with May, 1898, 5.97 cents.

Comparing the total values of cotton exported with those of preceding years, it may be said that 1903 seems likely to show the largest total value in raw cotton exports of any year in the history of our commerce. In 1848 the total value of raw cotton exported was, in round terms, $62,000,000; in 1860, $192,000,000; in 1870, $227,000,000 in paper, but $184,000,000 stated in gold; in 1880, $211,000,000; in 1890, $250,000,000; in 1900, $242,000,000; in 1901, $313,000,000; and, as already indicated, seems likely to be, for 1903, $317,000,000.

Meantime the value of cotton exported in manufactured form has also increased, and will make its highest record in the present fiscal year. The total value of cotton manufactures exported in the ten months ending with April is $27,932,559, indicating that the total for the full fiscal year will probably be about $34,000,000, against $33,000,000 in 1902, $24,000,000 in 1900, $10,000,000 in 1890, $10,000,000 in 1880, and $4,000,000 in 1870.

At the same time the cotton manufacturers of the United States have increased and are still increasing their consumption of cotton both from our own fields and from abroad. The total number of bales taken by the mills of the United States last year for the first time passed the 4,000,000 line, the figures being 4,083,000 bales, against 3,644,000 in 1900, 3,325,000 bales in 1890, 1,795,000 bales in 1880 and 857,000 bales in 1870.

Meanwhile the importations of foreign cotton, chiefly Egyptian, are growing with remarkable rapidity, the importations in the present year being likely to reach 80,000,000 pounds, to which may be added 20,000,000 pounds of "flocks," or cotton waste, with a total valuation of about $12,000,000; against 43,000,000 pounds of raw cotton and 78,000 pounds of waste imported in 1893, valued at less than $5,000,000.

MADE MERRY TOO SOON.

Woful Tale of the Man Whose Wife Was Going Away But Missed Her Train.

"What's the matter, old fellow?" he said, as they met the morning after, relates London. "I feel blue."
"But as a night you were the jolliest member of the party."
"I feel jolly."
"You acted like a boy just let out of school."
"I felt like one."

"You said your wife had gone away for the first time in three years, and there wasn't anyone to say a word if you went home and kicked over the mantle clock."
"I remember it."
"You said that if you stayed out until four o'clock there was no one to look at you reproachfully and sigh and make you feel small."
"Yes, and I stayed out until four o'clock, didn't I?"
"You certainly did."

"And I gave a war-whoop on the doorstep."
"Yes; and then you sang a verse from a comic opera song and tried to dance a jig."
"Yes; and my wife had missed the train. Now go away and leave me. I want to look myself a little more for not taking the precaution to get an affidavit from the guard that she went with the train."
And he gave himself several bangs on the ears and then shook himself till his hair began to fall out.

Found a Friend.

Valley City, N. Dak., July 27th.—Mrs. Matilda M. Houser of this place tells how she found a friend in the following words: "For years I suffered with a dizziness in my head and could get nothing to cure me till about two years ago when I was advised to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. These pills cured me before I had used the whole of the first box, and I haven't been troubled since."

"In January of this year I had an attack of Sciatica that made me almost helpless, and remembering how much Dodd's Kidney Pills had done for me before, I sent and got some and began to take them at once."

"In three weeks I was well, and not a trace of the Sciatica left, and I have been well ever since."
"Dodd's Kidney Pills have certainly been of great benefit to me. I have found them a friend in time of sickness, and I will always recommend them to every one suffering with the troubles that bothered me."

Modern Conveniences.

The Abilene Democrat tells of a man who stopped over night in a small town near here and registered at the hotel pointed out to him by the conductor as the best in town. In the morning he wanted to take a bath and consulted the proprietor about it. The proprietor showed back to the rear: "Here, Tom, this here gent wants to take a bath. Bring the fixins." Tom soon appeared, carrying a cake of yellow soap, a towel and a pail. "What's the pick for?" asked the guest. "Why," said the proprietor, "you'll have to dam up the creek."—Kansas City Star.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Mrs. F. Wright, of Oelwein, Iowa, is another one of the million women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Overshadowing indeed is the success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—compared with it, all other medicines for women are experiments.

Why has it the greatest record for absolute cures of any female medicine in the world? Why has it lived and thrived and done its glorious work among women for a quarter of a century? Simply because of its sterling worth. The reason that no other medicine has ever reached its success is because there is no other medicine so successful in curing woman's ills. Remember these important facts when a druggist tries to sell you something which he says is just as good.

A Young New York Lady Tells of a Wonderful Cure:—

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—My trouble was with the ovaries; I am tall, and the doctor said I grew too fast for my strength. I suffered dreadfully from inflammation and doctored continually, but got no help. I suffered from terrible dragging sensations with the most awful pains low down in the side and pains in the back, and the most agonizing headaches. No one knows what I endured. Often I was sick to the stomach, and every little while I would be too sick to go to work for three or four days; I work in a large store, and I suppose standing on my feet all day made me worse."

"At the suggestion of a friend of my mother's I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it is simply wonderful. I felt better after the first two or three doses; it seemed as though a weight was taken off my shoulders; I continued its use until now I can truthfully say I am entirely cured. Young girls who are always paying doctor's bills without getting any help as I did, ought to take your medicine. It costs so much less, and it is sure to cure them."—Yours truly, ADELAIDE PRAHL, 174 St. Ann's Ave., New York City."

Women should not fail to profit by Miss Adelaide Prahl's experiences; just as surely as she was cured of the troubles enumerated in her letter, just so certainly will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure others who suffer from womb troubles, inflammation of the ovaries, kidney troubles, nervous excitability, and nervous prostration; remember that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing women, and don't allow any druggist to sell you anything else in its place.

If there is anything in your case about which you would like special advice, write freely to Mrs. Pinkham. She can surely help you, for no person in America has such a wide experience in treating female ills as she has had. Address is Lynn, Mass.; her advice is free and always helpful.

Latest Fashion Notes.

HANDSOME RECEPTION GOWN OF PONGEE.

Pongee gowns are not only practicable, but comfortable and stylish. The one here shown is in pale blue, combined with embroidered pongee, this work being done with Corticelli filo silk. A unique idea is shown in threading the collar of embroidery with a black Liberty silk scarf, which fancied the front, and extends in long ends completed with ornaments. Hip shirrings are introduced, and shirring is on the upper portion of the sleeves.

Many of the soft pastel shaded serges are made with long, flat plaits in the center of the back, and some of the newest have a fullness at the foot, extending by means of kiltings let in from the hem and diminishing towards the waist.

An Excellent Way of Applying Poisonous Substances Thoroughly, Cheaply and Rapidly.

Poisoning potato bugs by hand on large plants is generally considered hard work. For the easiest way—and the best if one does not wish to use Bordeaux at the same time, for blight—is this: Take an old-fashioned flour sieve holding six or eight quarts and attach it to a crooked stick with two branches, as shown in cut. A short search in almost any tree will find one of the right shape. It is fastened to the sieve by three small bits of wire through gimlet holes in sieve. A stout piece of twine reaches from the two ends of the stick around the operator's neck to support the weight. Instead of sieve a light box with wirecloth bottom may be used. The sieve is filled with a dry mixture of paris green and land plaster or flour, one pound to 100 thoroughly mixed. The handle is carried in one hand, the weight being on the neck and not noticed, while the other hand carries a very light stick, with which the sieve is lightly tapped when over each potato hill. The poison is very thoroughly, economically and rapidly applied, and above all the work is very light. The sieve is held over a pan while filling, to avoid waste.—E. N. Barrett, in Epitome.

SIEVE READY FOR USE.

Against the Double Hive.

The double hive, or what is called in England the Wells system—a hive with two compartments side by side, with a perforated separating wall, allowing the workers, but not the queen, to pass from one side to the other—has now been on trial for several years, and while some speak well of it, the testimony in general has not been such as to warrant its general adoption. One objection is that when the colony on one side swarms the colony on the other side is excited to swarming, whatever its condition may be. Another objection is that when one side becomes queenless it is likely to remain so, the presence of a queen on the other side preventing the bees from feeling their queenlessness sufficiently to rear a new queen.—Pacific Homestead.

Tobacco for Plant Lice.

Coarsely-ground tobacco is good for nothing as an insecticide, under ordinary circumstances. When finely ground, it can be used dry with good effect against plant lice and soft-bodied insects generally.

In the form of a decoction, it may be prepared by using one pound of coarsely ground tobacco or chopped stems or refuse and pouring through it one gallon of boiling water. This decoction will be effective against plant lice of almost all kinds and is the cleanest material that can be used on house plants.—J. B. Smith, in Farm and Home.
